

Outstanding Student Leader Award

MA KA CHUN

Associate of Science in Airport Operations and Aviation Logistics

An Executive Committee member of the student Aviation Society and a Student Mentor of the AD programme, Ka Chun has been co-ordinating his classmates in student activities. He is also a Student Mentor of the College's Student Mentoring Scheme. He also co-ordinated the efforts of his team to participate in the International Logistics Case Study Competition in Rotterdam in February this year. Ka Chun said emphatically, "I have learned how to arrange people to solve problems together. This skill is more valuable than a prize or medal." Despite his busy commitments in student activities, Ka Chun has also been able to manage his studies well. His Semester GPA last semester was in the high range and we can see steady improvements over his past three semesters of study.
